

122ND SESSION OF THE INTERNATIONAL COFFEE
COUNCIL AND ASSOCIATED MEETINGS

'COFFEE: A GLOBAL HISTORY' LAUNCH RECEPTION

Sponsored by

University of Hertfordshire UH

We are delighted to welcome Professor Jonathan Morris for the launch reception of his new book 'Coffee: A Global History', kindly hosted by the University of Hertfordshire.

Jonathan is a Research Professor at the University of Hertfordshire, and Vice-President of the Royal Historical Society.

19 SEPTEMBER 2018, 18:00-19:30
INTERNATIONAL MARITIME ORGANIZATION
4 ALBERT EMBANKMENT
LONDON SE1 7SR
UNITED KINGDOM

ED-2284/18

COFFEE: A GLOBAL HISTORY

'Coffee: A Global History', the new book by Professor Jonathan Morris and published by Reaktion Books, explains how the world acquired a taste for coffee, yet why coffee tastes so different throughout the world. He traces coffee's journey from the forests of Ethiopia to the fincas of Latin America, from Ottoman coffee houses to Third Wave cafes, and from the simple coffee pot to the capsule machine.

Jonathan was the European Editor of 'Coffee: A Comprehensive Guide to the Bean, the Beverage, and the Industry', and directed the 'Cappuccino Conquests' research project that traced the spread of Italian-style coffee around the world.

LAUNCH RECEPTION

Delegates of the 122nd Session of the International Coffee Council have the opportunity to join the launch reception of 'Coffee: A Global History' where, in conversation with Vincente Partida, Director of Communications at the Specialty Coffee Association, Professor Morris will share some of the key findings from his research.

Book your place to avoid disappointment:

<https://coffee-aglobalhistorylaunchreception122icc.eventbrite.co.uk>

We regret that we are unable to provide interpretation in all ICO languages for this event.